

President Readies Nuclear Technology Restriction Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford is making final preparations to announce his long-awaited proposals to control the spread of nuclear technology and weapons.

The White House received seven weeks ago the report of a government commission assigned by Ford last July to review American policy and recommend changes.

Since that time, diplomatic sources report, American embassies abroad have been told to brief the 14 members of the nuclear "suppliers club" on the new U.S. proposals and rally support for them.

The club — including the U.S.S.R., France, West Germany, East Germany, Japan, and Great Britain — has been meeting privately in London since 1975 to consider the way it will provide nuclear technology to the developing world.

Ford's proposals will be the U.S. position when the club meets again, perhaps next month.

The timing of Ford's announcement also has political ramifications, coming in the final week of the presidential campaign. Since May, when he spoke on the subject at the United Nations, Democrat Jimmy Carter has been accusing the administration of lack of leadership on the nuclear proliferation problem.

The problem is the increasing likelihood that conventional nuclear reactors and fuels intended for the generation of electricity can be used by recipient countries to make atomic bombs.

India demonstrated the potentialities to the world when it detonated a nuclear device in 1974, using nuclear fuels and technology that it had been given for peaceful purposes.

The Nuclear Policy Review Group which Ford appointed last summer included representatives from more than a dozen government agencies involved with weapons, energy and the environment.

The commission split on which direction American policy should take: attempting to sit on the spread of fuel reprocessing technology, or acknowledging that the spread is inevitable and attempting to slow and control it.

The environmentalists and disarmament proponents on the commission recommended that the United States oppose the development and spread of reprocessing technology and instead sponsor efforts to find ways to use spent nuclear fuel without separating the plutonium.

The State Department and the Energy Research and Development Administration recommended that the United States sponsor a carefully controlled international program to develop reprocessing technology.

Two weeks ago, White House sources said Ford was leaning toward the second option.

Korean Disclosures Worry U.S. Diplomats

WASHINGTON (AP) — State Department officials are worried that disclosures of a Justice Department investigation into South Korean lobbying activities could lead to diminished U.S. public support for South Korea's defense.

The Korean peninsula is considered one of the most likely areas where a great power confrontation could take place, and officials here are hopeful that recent disclosures will not divert attention from the high political stakes in that region.

Furthermore, the disclosures come at a particularly sensitive time. Congressional support for South Korea has been waning because of concern about what is viewed in some quarters as a dictatorial regime there and because of the desire to cut back U.S. forces overseas.

In northeast Asia, the interest of four great powers — the United States, the Soviet Union, China and Japan — all intersect. U.S. acquiescence to any North Korean military conquest of South Korea would, according to officials, have a disastrous effect on Japan.

Rhodesia Talks Open

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — The negotiations that may provide the last chance for a peaceful transition to black rule in Rhodesia open today, but the prospects for agreement between the black and white leaders look increasingly poor.

U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, whose shuttle diplomacy laid the groundwork for the conference, ordered his chief expert on Africa, Asst. Secretary of State William Schaefle Jr., to Geneva. He also indicated he might go himself if necessary.

Kissinger told a news conference in Hartford, Conn., that he does not expect a stalemate. But he said if the negotiations between Prime Minister Ian Smith and four black nationalist leaders falter "the United States will do its best to get them started."

"We will do what is asked by the parties to bring the negotiations to a successful conclusion."

Britain, the colonial power in Rhodesia until Smith's unilateral declaration of independence 11 years ago, called the conference to make plans for an interim government of blacks and whites after Smith's white minority regime agreed in principle to hand over power to the black majority in two years.

However, the conference is deadlocked in advance on the makeup of the interim government, and none of the leaders give any indication of modifying their positions.

Smith says he agreed to a proposal by Kissinger for the whites to retain a veto during the transition period and also to retain control of the army and the police. He contends that the secretary of state told him the blacks had accepted that arrangement.

The blacks reject the Kissinger plan and demand black control immediately, including control of the army and police.

Both British Foreign Secretary Anthony Crosland and Kissinger say the plan put before Smith was a basis for negotiations, not a binding commitment.

Black leaders Joshua Nkomo and Robert Mugabe made additional demands earlier this week. When the British failed to support them all the way, they accused them of collaborating with the white Rhodesians to "wreck the conference."

Nkomo and Mugabe said "the conference will be in jeopardy" unless Smith met their demands for an immediate end to antigovernment warfare and the freeing of an estimated 600 political prisoners.

Ivor Richard, the British ambassador who is chairman of the conference, asked Smith to comply with only one of the demands — the release of political prisoners. Rhodesian Foreign Minister Pieter van der Byl said he expected his chief of staff to consider releasing only a few specifically named prisoners to attend the talks.

The black leaders also want Britain to send a cabinet minister to preside at the conference, and Smith on Wednesday called for "greater effort and participation at a higher level from both the American and British governments."

Insurance Discussed At Hospital Board Meeting

By ANDI PORTER
Herald Staff Writer

Board of Governor's member Harry Clifton presided over Wednesday evening's meeting of the Berger Hospital Board. Policies of the insurance company were reviewed by members and Administrator Charles Rideout.

The board reviewed a letter from the insurance company concerning Emergency Medical Team members using facilities in the hospital. The statement read that their participation in emergency room activities would extend liability and be too much responsibility. It further stated that the company would prefer that the members not assist in those operations.

Rideout said everything has been done to afford their help, but it would not be wise mainly for malpractice reasons.

Emergency Medical members have desired to participate in emergency activities, but must continue to be volunteer help. They can only be used as trainees.

The Ohio Department of Health, Education and Welfare sent a letter to Rideout approving the building program. It recommends that the project be completed and adds that it expects the same recommendation from the secretary of the U.S. Department of H.E.W.

Rideout informed the board that the local radio will discuss the hospital issue Monday evening. It would like four people representing the hospital views on the proposed bond issue. Number 10 on the November ballot is for a new bed section to replace the existing old part of Berger Hospital.

The board was also told of the donation made by Circle Plastic Products, Inc. which includes an endorsement of the upcoming bond issue.

From the medical staff report, the by-laws concerning clinical services have been adopted by the staff and have been approved by the board. Use of clinical services must be requested in writing by the staff.

A medical staff representative is now on the Peer Standards Review Organization. For this year, this representative will have no vote, but just be an observer. Since most doctors conform to PSRO, the medical staff should cooperate with its findings.

For September, Clifton noted that hospital occupancy is down. Total admissions for the month was 402, with 176 adults and 226 newborns. This figure is down by 30 from September of 1975. For the year to date, 2127 patients have been in Berger, which is above the 1,980 patients from the previous year.

In the emergency room, 1079 people have used the services, compared to 1,105 from last year. The year to date, 10,043 is 618 patients above last year's figures.

Rideout informed the board of his reelection to the Blue Cross Advisory Committee for another year.

The first touch telephone system in Pickaway County has been installed at the hospital, it was announced by Rideout. He said it is now available in the emergency phones and other changes are continuing.

Rideout informed the board of the hospital Christmas party Dec. 3. He also updated members on the employe of the month. He said the program has helped to reduce the absenteeism problem.

Rideout and board members have decided to change the meeting date for the next month to Nov. 23 because of Thanksgiving conflicts.

Highway Patrol Asks For Aid During Halloween

The members of the Ohio State Highway Patrol want to enlist the assistance of the Pickaway County residents during this Halloween season, particularly those motorists who have C.B. radios in their vehicles.

It seems as though the practice of "soaping windows" has given way to the more destructive practice of throwing objects from overpasses or throwing objects at moving vehicles. This thoughtless act can result in the serious injury or death of the unsuspecting motorist.

The local post requests that all C.B. operators within Pickaway County be especially alert, and report all incidents of this nature to law enforcement authorities. The Circleville Post monitors the "Emergency Channel 9", while all patrol officers monitor both channel 9 and 19.

Violators, when prosecuted, will receive the stiffest penalty afforded by law, which can range from a maximum fine of $500 and a year in jail for damage done to a vehicle, to a prison term should someone be injured or killed.

Weather

Mostly sunny today and Friday with a high today in the middle 40s and Friday's temperature will be in the middle 50s. Clear and cold tonight with the temperature near 30. Chances of precipitation, near zero per cent today, tonight and Friday. Wednesday's high was 43 with a low during the night of 19. There was a slight trace of snow flurries Wednesday.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market pressed ahead today, getting a boost from a prime rate reduction by a large Chicago bank.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks rose more than 2 points in the early going, and gainers out-paced losers by more than a 2-1 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Chicago's Continental Illinois National Bank announced this morning it was cutting its prime lending rate from 6 3/4 to 6 1/2 per cent on Friday.

Analysts said the news seemed to give further impetus to a market that was already moving ahead on hopes for a rally in stock prices once the close contest for the presidency is decided with next week's election.

Today's prices included General Electric, up 1/4 at 53; Citicorp, unchanged at 30 3/4, and Union Carbide, ahead 3/8 at 61 3/4.

On Wednesday the Dow Jones industrial average gained 7.98 to 956.12, stretching its advance for the past two sessions to 18.12 points.

Gainers outnumbered losers by about an 8-5 margin on the NYSE, and the exchange's composite index rose .35 to 54.32.

Big Board volume remained sluggish at 15.79 million shares.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index added .33 to 98.50.

Rhodes Eases Legislative Push

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes apparently won't press the Democratic legislature any more this year for approval of his threebill package giving tax breaks to new and expanding industry.

Rhodes, who called the legislation "urgent" when he sent it to the General Assembly last month, was quoted by an aide as saying the governor now expects to wait for the next—possibly Republican—General Assembly which convenes in January.

Thomas J. Moyer, Rhodes' executive assistant, was asked about the bills after the House Ways and Means Committee, unable to obtain a quorum for the second time this week, adjourned Wednesday until the next regular legislative session on Nov. 9.

Rhodes, he said, "has been resigned for the last couple of weeks now that it was going to be a prolonged process. We are hopeful the new legislature will have a different makeup and will be more receptive to this type of legislation."

High Court Knocks Out Ordinance

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Supreme Court on Wednesday knocked a Dublin village zoning ordinance off next Tuesday's election ballot, but refused to disturb local decisions on ballot issues in Willoughby Hills and Defiance County.

The court in a 5-2 decision said a proposed zoning ordinance in the Village of Dublin could not be voted upon because circulators of the referendum petition did not swear the required oaths. That invalidated the petitions, the court held.

The court issued a writ of prohibition preventing the Franklin County Board of Elections from holding the election. In two other cases, however, the court upheld the decisions of the local boards.

The court refused to disturb a decision by the Willoughby Hills city council clerk that a recall election was not properly supported by petitions. The election would have proposed the recall of the mayor and five of the seven council members.

The court also refused to strike from the Defiance County ballot a referendum on the Gordon Creek Reconstruction Project.

Supporters of the project attempted to have the election, on project assessments, stricken because the Defiance County Board of Elections supposedly did not examine the petitions for validity.

Blaze Hits Shillito's

CINCINNATI (AP) — Damage was set at $110,000 this morning in a third floor fire at the downtown Shillito's Department Store.

Fire Marshal Jack Meyer said the fire, which was started by an electrical short circuit in a false ceiling, caused $10,000 damage to the building but the bulk of the damage caused by smoke and water to the stock in the seven story building.

"Water was cascading down three floors into the basement store and ruined the window displays," said Meyer.

Meyer said he made the damage estimate after conferring with officials of Federated Department Stores Inc. A spokesman for Federated stated, however, the store would be open today.

Optometrist Attends Meeting

David L. Smith, O.D., 231 N. Court St., was one of more than 400 licensed optometrists who attended the fifth annual Ohio Optometric Association sponsored Fall Educational Conference, Oct. 5-7, 1976, at Salt Fork State Park, Cambridge, O.

Co-sponsored by the Illinois and The Ohio State University Colleges of Optometry and their Alumni Associations, the Conference featured 30 one-through-four hour courses on the latest developments in optometric theory and technique.

During the Conference, Dr. Smith attended six hours of continuing education. Under Ohio law, practicing optometrists must complete at least 12 clock hours of approved continuing optometric education each year for license renewal. Courses are approved by the Ohio State Board of Optometry.

Lecturers from Indiana, Illinois, Ohio and Pennsylvania, experts in various professional areas, instructed O.D.'s in subjects ranging from types of soft contact lenses and fitting techniques to pediatric and geriatric optometry.

The Conference included Illinois and Ohio State University Colleges of Optometry Alumni banquets, with featured speakers Alfred A. Rosenbloom, O.D., President of the Illinois College of Optometry and Frederick W. Hebbard, O.D., Dean of the OSU College of Optometry.

Acquitted Gurney Blasts Opponents

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Former Sen. Edward J. Gurney, his name cleared after a long legal battle, blames his ordeal on "vindictive people from the government."

"They destroyed a United States senator, blackened my name, besmirched my character and ruined me economically," Gurney said Wednesday after a jury found him innocent of perjury.

Gurney, 62, was accused of lying to a 1974 Jacksonville grand jury about a major political fund-raising operation. He had been acquitted of five bribery, conspiracy and perjury charges at a trial in Tampa last year, but the government ordered him retried on one perjury charge on which the jury reached no verdict.

"We've beaten these mean, vicious and vindictive people from the government," said the former Republican senator, who retired because of the scandal.

The grand jury had charged that Gurney "deliberately and wilfully lied" when he said he didn't know that his one-time fund raiser, Larry Williams of Orlando, had collected more than $400,000 in illegal contributions. Williams got the money from Florida builders in exchange for promises of favors from Florida offices of the Federal Housing Administration.

The only issue before the jury here when it began deliberations was whether Gurney knew before mid-1973 that Williams used part of his illegal collections to pay Gurney's field-office and staff expenses.

Gurney, a World War II hero who served three terms as a congressman before his 1968 election to the Senate, gained national prominence as the tough-questioning defender of then-President Richard M. Nixon during the televised Senate Watergate hearings in 1973.

Asked whether he thought this had anything to do with the government's prosecution, Gurney said, "I can only conjecture about Watergate.... I expect it probably did. But I don't know."

Justice Department lawyer Edward Barnes, the ninth federal prosecutor assigned to the case over three years, had no comment.

Williams testified for the government in return for a plea bargained prison sentence of five months. Others serving prison terms in connection with the case were James Groot, once Gurney's administrative assistant; FHA Director William Pelski of Coral Gables; and building contractor John Priests of Miami.

The case against Gurney depended largely on Williams, who went to the Justice Department in 1973 and agreed to tell all about his fund-raising activities in return for a reduced sentence.

Six Persons Plead Guilty In CP Court

Six persons appeared in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court Wednesday.

Michael McDonald, 357 Clark Drive, pleaded guilty to a charge of trafficking in marijuana. He was originally charged on June 29 and also on July 12 of unlawfully selling marijuana in less than bulk amount. Judge William Ammer ordered a pre sentence report before sentencing.

Roger Dale Willard, 27, Amanda, entered a plea of guilty to breaking and entering and vandalism. On Sept. 26 he was charged with trespassing on the premises of Duds and Suds Laundry and damaging a pay telephone. Judge Ammer sentenced him to concurrent terms of six months to five years on each charge. The sentences are to be served at Mansfield Reformatory. The defendant waived Grand Jury indictment and appeared before the court on a bill of information.

Donawd Lee May, 21, Columbus, was charged with violation of probation. He entered a guilty plea to criminal trespassing and petit theft and was placed on probation for one year on March 3. May and three juveniles were accused on Sept. 19, 1975 of entering a mobile home residence and stealing merchandise valued at $164.60. The court revoked May's probation and committed him to the county jail to serve a six month sentence.

Michael Edward Patterson, 27, Greenfield, was charged with aggravated assault. He pleaded guilty to the charge on Sept. 1. After a presentence report was completed, Judge Ammer sentenced Patterson to one to five years in the Mansfield Reformatory. The sentence was suspended and Patterson was placed on probation for three years.

The terms of his probation are that he not consume any intoxicating liquor and was committed to the county jail for 60 days. Patterson was involved in a fight off Walnut Street on July 6. James P. Williams, 19, 586 E. Franklin St., pleaded guilty to forgery and grand theft. A pre sentence report was ordered by Judge Ammer. Williams was accused on Oct. 13 of stealing blank checks and passing a forged check in the amount of $175 at a local supermarket.

Sharon Ann Wycuff, 21, Mt. Sterling, pleaded guilty to grand theft on July 21 and sentenced to Marysville Reformatory for Women. After serving 98 days of a six month to five year term she was released on shock probation. The terms of the probation is that she make restitution of $8,685 for welfare benefits unlawfully received.

The youngsters and residents will have quite a busy Halloween day this Sunday afternoon here in our village. Beginning at 2 p.m. children will gather at the United Methodist Church and go in groups for the annual canvassing of the town for donations to the UNICEF fund.

The hours 5 until 6 p.m. has been designated Beggar's Hour when local children 12 and under will appear as all sorts of ghosts, goblins, witches and other apparitions in the quest for treats from villagers. All homes who will have a treat for the beggars are requested to have an outside light turned on (such as a porch light, yard light, etc.) as a signal that the beggars are welcome. If a resident DOES NOT have any such light burning the beggars should be sure to respect this and NOT bother the occupants of the home. Parents in the community are asked to be certain to instruct their children on this point.

As has been the annual custom for nearly 30 years the local American Legion Post 618 invites residents of the community to a mummies parade and party in the Pavilion starting at 7 p.m. Prizes of 1st, 2nd and 3rd will be awarded in the traditional mummies parade to the Prettiest; Ugliest and Most Original. Following the judging and selection of the winners Legion members will be serving refreshments in keeping with the season.

Anyone not wishing to participate in the Beggar's Hour but would still like to be a part of the days activities is encouraged to donate towards the Legion Party. Contributions will be accepted by any member of the Halloween Committee: Eileen Easterday, Denise Oesterle, Frances Fry, Billy Carter, Bill Oesterle, Junior Keller and Lon Rigbsy.

This is the first time all three annual events have been "rolled" into one package so it will be most interesting to observe how it all goes. One thing for sure, there shouldn't be a kid in town moaning that there is nothing to do.

The Steering Committee for the purchase and improvement of the school grounds met on Oct. 19 and according to their news release they are searching for a project name or slogan and will be grateful for any suggestions. Since there is already a Community Park they would like to come up with something different.

It was decided to meet with a legal advisor so that an account can be properly set up for receiving funds. As soon as the legality of handling the money is straightened out they will be ready to receive contributions. The committee will also meet with Greg Bigam who will advise on the

Police Check Theft

Circleville Police investigated a breaking and entering at the Washing Well, 121 Walnut Street, this morning.

According to Plt. Joe Stevenson's report, the thieves broke open a coin device and removed $7 in coins, while causing $20-$30 in damage to the machine.

availability and procedures for state or federal funding for at least a part of the project. Members of the committee are Marcia Horch, Shirley Bowser, Charles Galloway, Glen Whitten and Jerry Wilt.

Karla Frye and Betty Bauman came up from Ohio University on Friday and had the time of their lives at their first ever Pumpkin Show. Betty is from Pittsburgh and is our Becki's roommate while Karla hails from Zanesville and lives on the same floor at Bryan Hall. Yours truly drove the three girls back to campus and was accompanied by my mother Mildred Hardman of Chillicothe.

"Doc" and Bernice Dupler from Somerset came over to spend Pumpkin Show time with their daughter and her family, Marilyn and Ron Bush, Mike and Tim.

Emma Puffinbarger has returned home after spending another week as guest of her daughter and son-in-law, Peg and Paul Fulton of Upper Arlington. Emma was taken to the Fultons by son Gene Steinhauer and his ever lovin' Glenna week ago Sunday and then on Friday evening her grandson Gary Beougher and family brought her to Circleville where she visited the weekend with son John Steinhauer and his soul mate Minnie.

Bertha Porter and Lillian Hess are back on their corner after being away for several days. They were with Herman and Garnet Porter who live near Five Points.

Doesn't it always happen? A young fellow wanted to go on a certain ride during Pumpkin Show and his mother told him no because he might fall and break an arm. So on Monday he goes to school, falls off a piece of playground equipment and suffers a fracture of the right wrist. And that's how it was for R. V. Hamman and his mom Jeannine!

Infant Nichole Beatrice Anderson is much improved and has been released from the hospital to the home of parents Reed and Shirley Anderson of Martinsville, Va. It is such a deep down happy feeling to be able to write that bit of news. And just as happy to be able to relate it was Aunt Norma Gilmore. Grandmother Beatrice "Bea" Anderson will return to her home this Saturday after going to Virginia to be with her son and his family which also includes little Laura. For those who might have been too involved and busy with Pumpkin Show last week to catch our article on Nichole we will repeat that just hours after her birth on Oct. 7 she was rushed to Charlottesville Baptist Hospital and underwent surgery for a serious respiratory problem. A few days after surgery she developed pneumonia so it has been a difficult beginning for the little one who was born one day after her mama's birthday.

It is always such a let down after the exhilaration of the fantastic four day Roundtown Pumpkin event, isn't it? I really have the blahs and find it hard to adjust to the groove. Give me time, give me time.

Be with you again next week, the Lord willing. Take care.

Library Plans Programs For Women

During the month of November, the Pickaway County District Public Library will be featuring a series of programs each Tuesday at 10:30 a.m. In most cases, the programs are slanted toward the interests of women.

The opening program, Nov. 2, will look at ways to stimulate children to better enjoy reading. Jane McGregor, Director of Children's Services for OVAL and the President of the Ohio Library Association, will be the speaker.

On Nov. 9, Mrs. E. R. Bennett will present a program based on "The Total Woman." All views are welcome and should prove to be an interesting program.

We will be privileged to have Paul Shover, past president of the Central Ohio Association for children with Learning Disabilities, as our speaker on the subject of learning disabilities.

A film entitled "The Story of Eric" will be the presentation on Nov. 23. It's an interesting story about a pregnancy and the LeMaze method of childbirth.

The final program, Nov. 30, should be of special interest to medical and educational professionals as well as to parents. "To Prepare a Child" is a new documentary film presented by the Children's Hospital National Medical Center in Washington. It addresses itself to the significant problem of preparing a child for receiving medical attention.

While these programs will be running concurrent with the children's story hour, they are not limited to mothers of pre-schoolers. The public is invited.

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE: While The Herald encourages open comments from its readers, the opinions expressed are not necessarily those of the management. Letters to the editor must be signed and should be of 300 words or less.

Dear Editor:
I would like to express my appreciation for Berger Hospital, in as much as I have been in and out many times during the last few years.
This local hospital is convenient and patients are given every consideration.
For a better equipped hospital I urge all Pickaway Countians to vote for Issue 10.

MRS. JAMES BUTT
Route 3,

Dear Editor:
On Election Day the voters of Pickaway County will be asked to determine the future of health care in our community.

Issue No. 10 is an opportunity to vastly improve the nature of health services in our county through the construction of a new Berger Hospital. The new 86-bed facility will provide many services that presently must be obtained through various hospitals in Columbus. The advantages of having improved health facilities in our county are obvious.

The facility will also serve as an excellent drawing card for young physicians, technicians and nurses who are looking for a community in which to live and work.

The total cost for the project is estimated at $3.8 million. You may ask, "How much will that cost me, the taxpayer?"—Well, if the appraised market value of your home is $20,000, your average cost would be $13.30 per year for a ten year period. If the appraised value of your home is $40,000, your average cost per year would be $26.60.

I am convinced that this is a small price to pay for something as important as Issue No. 10. I hope you agree with me.

Sincerely,
MARVINE H. RHOADES
Former Pickaway
County Auditor

Dear Editor:

The November 2, 1976, ballots contain a number of significant issues which when decided will have a direct relationship on the daily lives of Pickaway Countians. The importance of the Sheriff and Prosecuting Attorney to our citizens is, clearly, self evident. State and federal issues are certainly important and require each citizen's most acute scrutiny.

Locally, an exceptionally important issue to be passed is the needed construction of Berger Hospital - reflected as Issue 10. We have begun to build a complex system of emergency medical services, which we must extend through enhanced care and treatment capacity at Berger Hospital. Additionally, it is necessary to demonstrate to third-party payors, such as Blue Cross-Blue Shield, that our efforts to insure future accreditation are positive. Another important reason to support Issue 10 is that our hospital plays an important role in attracting new physicians and new industry to Pickaway County.

Pickaway Countians have always had the lofty distinction of supporting issues concerning health care and emergency services. It is this positive perspective, that, I believe, is critically important to the passage of Issue 10 and to the proposition of continued local progress.

I urge each citizen to reflect on the importance of their vote and to support their choices by affirmative action.

Very truly yours,
JOHN R. ADKINS,
Solicitor

They'll Do It Every Time

Dear Editor:
At the 1975 Pumpkin Show, I fell over a cable and was transported by the Circleville Squad to Berger Hospital Emergency.

Immediately I was given treatment and x-rays. The doctors and nurses were most efficient.

Recently, on Oct. 10th., I attended the "Open House" at Berger Hospital to view the new medical building. Also, I might add that I walked through the entire tour — and I'm 87 years young.

I saw all the latest life-saving equipment and I was so glad that I was given this special privilege.

We never know when we might have an emergency. To complete this fine hospital we must support Issue 10.

Dear Editor:
Our bicentennial year will soon be closing with a special flourish due to the upcoming election. 1976 presents a presidential election to our nation, as well as many state and local issues and races. The results at all levels of government will mold how government responds to your needs and determine the course America is to follow.

All candidates desire an informed and interested voting public. We urge you to read and use the information provided by the media, compare qualifications and positions, and exercise your privilege to vote on November 2nd.

Celebrate the bicentennial by supporting those that express your beliefs and feelings this Tuesday!

Sincerely,

Dear Editor:

I would like to thank the Circleville emergency medical team and the sheriff's department for the prompt and efficient service during my wife's recent car wreck. Within minutes they were at the scene of the accident and immediately transported the injured to the hospital.

We are fortunate in this community to have such great people working for us.

Dear Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to let all the concerned citizens of Pickaway County know how well my wife Vivian was treated and cared for during her recent stay in Berger Hospital. She received excellent care from all her doctors and nurses and everyone connected with Berger Hospital.

I definitely will be voting for Issue 10 in the coming election Nov. 2. We need to update Berger Hospital with more facilities for patients in the future. If Issue 10 passes, it will become a reality.

PAUL D. HICKMAN

Dear Editor:

I feel this letter is necessary at this time because several times a week I find myself confronted by individuals who have no idea that I am no longer a Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff. This was effective as of June 1, 1976; however several people evidently didn't notice my resignation announcement as it was included in another article in the Circleville Herald.

I did complete the 280 hour Peace Officers Training Course while in the Department. I also did have a total of 1 1/2 years experience with the Department, but evidently due to lack of ethics some have called me such names as "Benedict Arnold."

One thing that I would like to mention is the "Federal Funds" which are received to buy cruisers, equipment, etc. Yes, expenses such as these are presently being purchased are paid mostly by Federal Funds with the small remaining percentage of the same being paid with your "Local Funds." Stop and ask yourself this question — "Who pays into the Federal Fund?" Why couldn't more standard equipment be purchased which could possibly allow more money to go to the employees in regards to overtime pay, court time pay, and better the present insurance program now being used.

Please be conscious of such matters as these; then select with a good clean conscience.

Respectively,
F.R. (RANDY) MCCOY

Dear Editor:

I would like to tell the people of Pickaway County what I think of our Sheriff, Dwight Radcliff. When my son, his wife and two grandsons were killed in the 1972 South Dakota flood, Dwight was by our sides all the time helping us to the very end. It really makes you feel good to know that someone as busy as he is will help people that are in need. I have worked with him, by him and for him and he was always the same.

We should be very proud to have a sheriff who holds not only a Buckeye State office but a National Sheriff's office. To me, this is a great honor. So if you need help in time of sorrow or trouble, call Dwight. I am sure he'll help you just as he has done for us.

I remain,
CLARA SAMPSON
Ashville

Dear Editor:

I am writing this letter to impress on the people of Pickaway County how important it is to vote YES on Issue 10 to enlarge and make improvements on Berger Hospital.

Having spent eight days in Berger Hospital this past summer, I realize how handy it was for my family to visit me and not have to be sent on to Columbus; but if there were no beds available, that is what would have happened.

Pickaway County is a rich county and has seen many projects started that people thought impossible. One, for instance, was the Brooks-Yates School for the mentally retarded. Our school now is considered one of the best in the state.

Think how many children and adults this has helped. They can be trained to reach their highest potential, be more self-supporting and to be better citizens. Moneywise it is much cheaper to keep them at home and in foster homes, than in our institutions. Why not have a hospital in the county that will stand inspection and meet with state requirements?

As a Senior Citizen I or no one else, for that matter, know how soon we may have to enter a hospital and the closer home, the better, so long as it is well staffed with doctors and nurses and beds and equipment that will stand inspection. Vote YES on this issue!

MRS. FANNIE BROOKS
Route 3

Dear Editor:

As a concerned voter in the upcoming election, I would like to express my opinion on one in particular — that of sheriff.

Dwight Radcliff has served the people of Pickaway County too long to be put out of office. His department is one of the most efficient in the state and he is recognized as one of the top law enforcement people in the state. Why should we change courses in the middle of the stream. Keep Radcliff in office and keep the protection that we want and need.

Maryland Has One Wild Mustang

BALTIMORE (AP) — According to Department of Interior statistics, Oregon has 7,000 wild mustangs. Maryland has only one.

The two-year old mare named Oraenna Littlespirit was brought from Nevada recently by Bart and Holly Ingoglia as part of a program to save wild horses from starvation or from death at the hands of ranchers protecting their grasslands.

Interior officials estimate that there are 50,000 mustangs and 3,000 wild burros on the Western rangelands. Laws to protect them and programs to relocate them have grown in the last two years, and officials estimate that the number of mustangs is increasing by 20 per cent each year.

The Ingoglias, who put in their request for a mustang more than a year ago, said they had not expected to be selected for the program run by the Interior Department and the National Mustang Assn. because there were so many applications and the Ingoglias lived so far from the West.

'Rainbow' - Elizabeth Dole - Conducts Busy Campaign

By VICTORIA GRAHAM
Associated Press Writer

A Secret Service agent speaks softly into a walkie-talkie from a bowling alley in Edwardsville, Ill.: "Rainbow approaching."

From a plush Ft. Worth country club: "Rainbow heading this way."

From a bustling Milwaukee airport: "Rainbow touching down."

In walks a smiling, nodding Rainbow — the Secret Service code name for Elizabeth Hanford Dole, campaigning for her husband, Bob, the man the Secret Service calls Ramrod.

Whoever dubbed them knew the Republican vice presidential candidate's reputation for sharp words and a hard-driving style and something of his bride's freshness and flair.

It is Elizabeth Dole's first campaign, and the cynics say they can tell — she really seems to enjoy it.

They make an effective team: She has the warm, personal touch, and he has the stronger stuff. One is left thinking that the man with the tough-guy image must be a nice guy after all to have such a nice wife beside him.

Unlike many political wives, Elizabeth "Liddy" Dole has more than a nice-wife, ornamental role. She is a lawyer, a consumer affairs expert, a Federal Trade commissioner on leave for the campaign.

She took an active part in planning the campaign and stumps the country on her own, joining her husband occasionally, and joking that she waves to him in airports.

The other day, she picked up the phone, called Dole's chief speech writer and suggested themes that might be worked into the last days of the campaign.

"I may not have years' experience in politics," says Mrs. Dole, 40, with a North Carolina drawl, "but I think you can succeed if you have common sense and understand people."

"Maybe it's because this is my first campaign, but I really enjoy campaigning and I don't get tired."

Describing her campaign as well as her career, she says, "I believe in giving everything my all, my best effort."

And so, although her aides are dragging and she has a sore throat, Elizabeth Dole is exuberant about pressing the flesh, making impromptu speeches, giving pep talks at phone banks and posing with an elephant or an old lady playing the kazoo.

An unprogrammed campaigner, she speaks without text and often foregoes meals at lunch and dinner so she can wander around and talk with the audience.

"Something about all these people buoys me up," she says. "It's a challenge and a total contrast to a rather academic existence of law books and briefs. It's a little like leaving an ivory tower."

Married just 10 months, Mrs. Dole is saving her honeymoon — and her career — until the election's over.

"Win or lose, I intend to return to the commission," says Mrs. Dole, a political independent.

"I believe the vice president can have a working wife, too."

If the Republicans win and if she returns to the FTC, Elizabeth Dole probably will be the nation's first vice presidential wife with a full-time career.

She has lived in Washington for 10 years, working in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and serving as deputy director for the Office of Consumer Affairs. Before entering government, she defended indigent criminals.

She sees the FTC as an opportunity to defend the "vulnerable," the elderly, the very young, the disadvantaged, the handicapped.

No, she doesn't feel the campaign is an intrusion or a sacrifice. No, she doesn't feel she's just "the candidate's wife."

She admittedly looks forward to a nice, warm beach, somewhere at the end of the trail, and to quiet times at home with her husband.

But she adds: "This is the highest point in my husband's career, and I'm glad to be able to share it with him. We share everything."

"We're both very strong, very independent people. Our careers mesh very well, and my husband is my strongest supporter."

A Phi Beta Kappa and Harvard Law School graduate, Mrs. Dole seems to have assumed one of the most substantive roles of all the candidates' wives.

Yet, there remains much of the wifely approach, the pep talk to supporters, and little of the hard-hitting, nitty-gritty campaigning.

She admits it's true — not because she can't discuss issues, not because she doesn't feel she should — but because of her leave of absence from the commission.

"I try to keep more on philosophy and principles," she says. "I wouldn't want a respondent to move to disqualify me in a case before the FTC because of something I said during the campaign."

"I don't even know what's pending," adds Mrs. Dole, who has received some criticism for not resigning.

She notes that a Library of Congress study showed that no laws are violated by her leave, which was approved by the commission chairman, the ranking minority member and President Ford.

"I think a lot of women were watching to see what I would do," she says, noting she received many telephone calls and letters from people who urged her not to give up her career.

Although her lower-key campaign role is dictated by her own career, Mrs. Dole admits: "It inhibits me. It's somewhat of a frustration because I would like to feel free to discuss anything."

When those self-imposed limitations, she carries the message, "You have a clear choice this year: between a moderate-to-conservative Republican ticket and a very liberal Democratic ticket."

She emphasizes that Republicans stand for strong national defense and cuts in federal spending. She uses the domestic analogy, "A family cannot spend more than it takes in."

But much of her campaign is devoted to conveying the personal, the chatty, the funny side.

She jokes about Dole proposing to her, "He told me it would be exciting, but he didn't tell me it would be like this!" She adds, "His courtship lines were not exactly truth in advertising."

Or she jokes about his being tapped for vice president and telling her to listen at the door to hear what the reporters outside were saying.

Mrs. Dole brings a down-home touch when she tells a Republican audience in Belleville, Ill., that her 83-year-old father wants to revisit his old home in Carbondale.

Warning her hands before a fire in a log cabin replica in Lombard, Ill., she says her mother is interested in historical preservation.

She talks of her small-town, North Carolina background and praises the "warm, wonderful people" of Russell, Kan. — Dole's home.

Mrs. Dole also says her role is to "say the thing that the candidate would not say about himself." And so she talks about Bob Dole, the man, and his "inner strength."

"He's the strongest person I've ever known," she says, telling audiences about the World War II injury that put him in a body cast and into hospitals for three years.

"This adversity is part of the reason of his inner strength," she says. "Bob Dole is an example that you can go forward and you don't have to stop at the sidelines."

Again and again, she is asked about her husband's tough-guy, hatchet-man image, and she maintains it is just not true.

"I think it's time to reassess that label," she says. "Yes, he is a hard campaigner. He's a candid person and he's not afraid to point out inconsistencies in the other side."

The things others might find political corn or hackneyed, she seems to relish.

In Huntsville, Ala., Elizabeth Hanford Dole was the delight of an advance man who discovered that the Hanford Circus had come to town with a baby elephant.

Of course, she fed peanuts to the elephant and later joked about trying to position the peanut on the large wet tongue while the Secret Service looked uneasily at the swaying, menacing trunk.

"That wasn't so bad," she laughed, "but afterwards, I had to shake hands."

At a bowling alley GOP breakfast in Edwardsville, Ill., a senior citizens kitchen band was going at it — wash tub, tambourine and all — to the tune of "Yankee Doodle."

"You all are so great and so lively," Mrs. Dole said. "I wish my dad could hear you." She posed with the band.

Betty Smith, a 74-year-old kazoo player, snuggled up for the cameras, then summed it up: "She's a wonderful person, very warm, very gracious. Smart, pretty, too."

"But it's going to take more than that to make up my mind."

I'm Switchin' To Ted Strickland For Congress

What Does This Mean
To The 6th District?

It Means We Can Change Things NOW!

- S

to help for Southern Ohio. The present condition of high unemployment and economic problems are not going to change under the present Congressman or administration. We have seen their solutions and they aren't working.
- W

Washington's
The present Congressman is letting the people of Southern Ohio down because his first interest is with the Washington establishment. Time and time again he has voted against us in favor of what the president wants.
- I

Indecisive
The present congressman cannot seem to take a firm stand. More than once he has voted for a bill, and when it was vetoed by the president, he voted with the president.
- T

Tired
It is a well-known fact that the incumbent wants to retire from congress. What we now have representing us is a defensive congressman who becomes angry or resentful whenever he is asked to explain his positions or actions.
- C

Complacent
No further proof of complacency need be found than the incumbent's lack of effort toward easing unemployment. His votes against bills that would create jobs shows that he is not concerned about the recently released intolerable figures for unemployment.
- H

Harsha
Our present representative to congress. A man you probably do not really know other than through letters written to you by his staff. Certainly, the way he votes shows that he does not know us or our needs.
- To
- T

Ted's
Ted Strickland, one of Ohio's most personable candidates. His training and background (Minister, child care administrator, teacher, psychologist) shows his dedication to helping people. Everyone who meets Ted instantly feels his sincerity and concern.
- E

Energetic
Ted Strickland's effort during this campaign is an example of the way he will work for us in Congress. He has informed us on the issues, asked us what we think about the issues, and has made himself available on a regular basis.
- D

Determination
Ted Strickland is determined to find a way to help people through Congress. He knows the problems of Southern Ohio and if there is a way to do something about them, he'll find it.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Sex Doc Says: Think On Young Things

DEAR ABBY: I wish you would please stop sending people to doctors just because they aren't sex maniacs.

My husband, at 58, mind you, started listening to all those sexcrazy men at work and decided that something must be wrong with him because he lost interest in sex. Then he went to his doctor who told him that some sex expert named Kinsey took a vote and found out that most men NEVER wear out.

Now, really! I wonder who he asked? Probably a lot of men who were ashamed to tell the truth.

Well, anyhow, this doctor told my husband if he wanted to get his manhood back, he should imagine that he was in bed with a beautiful young woman he had seen in the movies or on TV! How do you like the nerve of that doctor giving my husband permission to think all those filthy, adulterous thoughts while he was in bed with me! I'm a God-fearing, church-going woman, Abby, and I think that doctor should lose his license for handing out immoral advice. Your opinion, please.

DISGUSTED IN ATLANTA

DEAR DISGUSTED: Although fantasies are a part of every normal person's life, there is a Biblical injunction against "thinking adulterous thoughts." If such advice were given by a preacher, he might lose his license to preach, but doctors aren't preachers.

DEAR ABBY: A handsome little fellow in our neighborhood has been pretending that he is a dog ever since he was a toddler, and now he is nearly kindergarten age.

He doesn't just "pretend" he's a dog, he actually ACTS like one. He makes barking and whining sounds just like his dog. I think he would eat and sleep with his dog if he were allowed to.

It is not the normal love of a boy for his dog, Abby. I asked him why he likes to pretend he's a dog, and he said, "Because it's more fun to be a dog!" He cannot talk plainly but he seems intelligent otherwise.

Shouldn't his mother be told that her child may need special guidance or treatment? Sometimes parents are so close to a situation they can't see it. How can I tell her? We are just nodding neighbors.

CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: It's awkward to go from a nodding acquaintance with your neighbor to a heart-to-heart discussion about her child's development. If you're truly concerned, initiate a closer friendship with her. (P.S. When the child goes to kindergarten, his teacher will surely recognize the problem, if there is one.)

DEAR ABBY: Seems like many of your female readers are fascinated by silicone. What are they trying to prove?

I live in a city that thinks it needs to be bigger. They put up large, cheap buildings to make the city look bigger. But it's still the same old city-only its troubles are magnified.

In other words, bigger isn't necessarily better. A gentle, modest curve beneath a sweater remains alluring, and realness is personality and everything else is more appealing than affectations.

Ashley-Finkbeiner Race Seen Close

By TOM JOURNEY
Associated Press Writer
"Finkbeiner for Congress. We're going to win," declares the optimistic voice over the telephone.

It belongs to a campaign worker for Carleton Finkbeiner, a 37-year-old Democrat who seeks the seat held by Rep. Thomas L. Ashley, D-Ohio.

Finkbeiner hopes to avoid a repeat of 1974 when he lost by 6,939 votes to the 11-term congressman. This year, the Toledo native brought in Commerce Secretary Elliot Richardson and House Minority Leader John Rhodes for endorsements to close the gap.

Although each candidate claims to be ahead in his polls, political observers say they believe the race is a dead heat.

"We're ahead," says an Ashley campaigner. Asked for details, she explains: "They've asked us not to say what our lead is."

Ashley's people, of course, say their candidate is leading. They, too, don't say by how much.

Their spending apparently is just as close.

Disclosure statements filed with the secretary of state show Ashley received $104,900 through mid-October and spent $62,952. Finkbeiner lists $92,695 in contributions and $73,872 in expenses.

As election day draws nearer, the candidates have stepped up their campaigning, which included four debates in October compared to one for 1974.

Finkbeiner accuses Ashley of being a member of a congressional majority that favors overspending. For ammunition, Finkbeiner has only to recall the incumbent's vote for the $2.3 billion in federal loans to bail out New York City.

Ashley has stressed his record, seniority and the important committee assignments he might hold because of that seniority if he is re-elected.

The candidates differ on the issues of jobs and energy, among others, with Ashley calling for a coordinated government and private sector approach to reducing unemployment and Finkbeiner stressing private help.

Where Ashley seeks a balanced approach to energy, including nuclear power, Finkbeiner wants to see deregulation.

On government spending, Ashley stresses a balanced budget within four years but cutting back on lower priority programs and by promoting continued economic recovery with reduced unemployment.

Mrs. Ford

Meets Old Pet

AUBURN HEIGHTS, Mich. (AP) — First Lady Betty Ford, campaigning for her husband in southeastern Michigan, had a happy reunion with a Golden Retriever named Jerry.

The Fords' pet dog, Liberty, delivered a litter of pups in September 1975, and the First Family donated one to the Leader Dogs for the Blind School in Rochester, Mich. Jerry now wears a harness he may use someday to guide a blind person.

The dog seemed nervous when he took the stage at Avondale High School in Auburn Heights amidst bursting balloons, cheerleaders and a band playing the fight song of the University of Michigan, President Ford's alma mater.

"I almost shed a few tears when I saw my puppy," Mrs. Ford told the crowd. She said the name Jerry is "quite appropriate," but she added, "He looks just like his mother."

"I wish I could say my Jerry was as well behaved," the First Lady joked.

$19.9 Million Paid For Assistance

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's 88 counties were paid $19.9 million for public assistance in September, the state auditor's office reported.

Auditor Thomas E. Ferguson said $13.8 million went to help the counties defray the general relief and administration costs of their welfare programs and the remainder was reimbursement for operation of family and children's services.

Korean Congress Denies Aiding Bribes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Korean government says it has no connection with Tongsun Park, the central figure in a probe of alleged Korean efforts to win the support of U.S. congressmen with gifts and cash, but a published report says the president of South Korea gave personal orders that established a program of official bribery.

Park is a mysterious Korean businessman with a passion for fine living and a knack for cultivating important people.

His lavish parties attracted the high and mighty, and made the host a fixture in the society pages, even while he earned occasional front-page notoriety for business deals involving his homeland.

Now a federal grand jury is probing Park and the money that allegedly flowed from his rice deals into the pockets of congressmen as part of a reputed Korean effort to win favorable treatment in Congress.

The Korean government issued a formal statement Tuesday that disclaimed any connection with Park or his lobbying activities. "Park has never been employed by the Korean government nor does he have anything to do with President Park Chung Hee," the statement said.

However, the Washington Post reported today that "highly sensitive" intelligence reports show that President Park Chung Hee personally ordered that U.S. congressmen be bribed with cash, gifts and campaign contributions. The two men are not related.

The Post said the intelligence reports are based on electronic eavesdropping, wiretaps, intercepts of other communications and information from double agents. One tape recording was of a meeting in Park Chung Hee's presidential mansion in Seoul, the newspaper said.

The Justice Department declined to comment on the report.

The 41-year-old Park, who maintains homes in Korea, the Dominican Republic and Palm Springs, Fla., as well as his mansion here, is outside the United States and has not been reached for comment on the allegations.

He has denied in the past that he is an agent of the Korean Central Intelligence Agency. While reportedly admitting to federal investigators that he has made payments to U.S. congressmen, Park has denied that his "gifts" — like the $10,000 in cash given to the wife of former Rep. Edwin Edwards prior to Edwards' election as governor of Louisiana in 1971 — were illegal.

Another beneficiary, Rep. John Brademas, D-Ind., said he did not regard the $4,650 in campaign contributions that Park gave in 1972 and 1974 as coming from the South Korean government. If he had, he "of course" would have refused to accept the money, said Brademas, a long-time critic of the South Korean government and the third-ranking member of the House.

If Park was acting at the behest of the Korean government, he may have violated the Foreign Agents Registration Act, which requires anyone representing a foreign power to register with the Justice Department.

Nostalgia Hits Mondale Campaign

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Staffers for Democratic Vice Presidential Candidate Walter Mondale were in a nostalgic mood as they finished a campaign stopover here Wednesday.

"This is where it all began," noted one staffer as she boarded the campaign plane at Akron Airport.

It was from that same airport that Mondale launched his first official campaign stop—a Labor Day parade in nearby Barberton.

"That was a great day," Mondale recalled during an address to an enthusiastic group of United Rubber Workers in Akron.

The closeness of the race is more evident now than it was in September and Mondale repeatedly emphasized the need for the Democratic faithful to turn out to vote.

"We're ahead but it's still close," he admitted. "In these last five days we've got to do our job."

During stops at both Dayton and Akron he blamed the current administration for high levels of unemployment and inflation.

"Akron," he told a news conference, "is experiencing the harsh realities of a Republican administration."

In Dayton, he tried to assure a city which is dependent on jobs provided by Wright Patterson Air Force Base.

Metzenbaum, Taft Debate In Cleveland

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sen. Robert Taft Jr. and Democratic challenger Howard Metzenbaum were getting ready today for their first debate since 1970, when Metzenbaum lost the election.

They will appear before the City Club of Cleveland, a weekly public forum, at noon Friday.

Taft shared the spotlight with President Ford today during Ford's visit to Cincinnati. On Wednesday, Taft visited nursing homes and taped television interviews in Cincinnati, but spent a few hours with staff members who quizzed him on issues they expect to be brought up in the debate.

This week has been kept relatively open so Taft could prepare for the confrontation, according to his news secretary, Jim Grohl.

Grohl questioned "how much impact a debate like this will have...because it's so close to the election."

The appearance was scheduled by the City Club, not the candidates, at least three months ago, he added.

Metzenbaum was scheduled to appear at a United Auto Workers leadership conference at the Cleveland Plaza Hotel today and a civic forum in Akron. He will return to Cleveland tonight to attend a Lake County Democratic dinner and a 20th District party rally.

PUCO Schedules Utility Hearing

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio on Wednesday gave two utilities 15 days to answer accusations that they wrongly used customers' money to support opponents of utility measures on the Nov. 2 ballot.

The PUCO acted on a complaint against Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. and Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. from Michael Schwarzwald, a state legislative candidate, and Diane Friedman and Sandra Sterrett.

In addition, stockholders Claudine Eckhart and Karen Wachman were permitted to intervene to represent stockholders.

The complaint accused the two utilities of making illegal contributions to the Vote No on Issues 4-7 Committee.

Curfew Plan Under Fire At Cincy

CINCINNATI (AP) — The 11 p.m. curfew proposal on the Cincinnati ballot next week has been rejected by Cincinnati City Council, the Fraternal Order of Police and an organized youth committee.

Councilman Walter Beckjord, who was responsible for the issue's placement on the ballot, met with opposition Wednesday from all three groups at the regular council meeting.

The curfew, which forbids persons under 18 to be out after 11 p.m. during the week and after 1 a.m. on non-school nights, will be decided by voters in the city of 450,000.

Beckjord and his workers circulated petitions to put the issue on the ballot after council voted against it. Beckjord asserted that 39 per cent of the crime committed in the city is done by juveniles at night.

Resident Bishop To Be Welcomed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Bishop Dwight E. Loder, new United Methodist resident bishop here, will be welcomed by community leaders Nov. 3.

They include Bishop Edward J. Herrman, bishop of the Columbus Diocese of the Roman Catholic Church; Ohio State University President Harold L. Enarson; and Kline L. Roberts, president of the Columbus Area Chamber of Commerce.

Bishop Loder came here from Detroit, where he served as head of the Michigan area for 12 years.

Council voted 8-1 Wednesday to oppose the proposal.

Donald Hardin, FOP attorney, said the police formally oppose the issue, on grounds it would be impossible to enforce and would damage police relations with juveniles if approved.

Members of the "Cincinnati Youths In Action" tried to shout down Beckjord's protests in council and picketed City Hall after the council meeting.

Police were called but made no arrests.

Police, firemen and city workers meanwhile are campaigning for a 35 per cent increase in the city's earnings tax. The city has threatened to lay off workers in all three divisions if the issue fails.

Reading, Riting, History

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — History is a school subject that can be deadly dull, or enormously exciting - depending on the teacher. It can also be funnily fouled-up, as can be observed from the following excerpts from term papers and test results taken among eighth graders in Pine Bluffs, Ark. . . .

Asked to describe Christopher Columbus, a student writes that Columbus "sat off to find Asia, which he was sure he could reach by sailing in the opposite direction."

Sir Francis Drake was "most famous for fighting the Spanish Armado, a fleet of warships that could be beaten but was."

In exploring the history of the Puritans, one student revealed "they were drunkards." And they led rigorous lives. "The most common food was porridge, a sort of corn slop - the same stuff the Three Bears ate."

The eighth graders delineated the drama of the Revolution ("Paul Revere jumped on his horse and rode through the streets yelling, 'Too warm! Too warm! The Red Colts is coming!'"), as well as the Civil War ("Gettysbug, among many others, was the greatest battle of the Civil War"), and the tragic death of Abraham Lincoln ("John Wilkins Booth, a supposingly insane actor, told the policeman that was suppose to guard Lincoln's body that he was wanted on the telephone. The guard was a pretty dumb fuzz and didn't know that the telephone had not been invented yet.")

One boy writes a dissertation on the heroes of World War I - a war that many people never understood too well. "Germany's best boy in an airplane was Mildred von Richtoven. He flew a red Fooker and so they called him the Red Barren." When he was finally shot down, Mildred "made a perfect landing. The man who shot him down flew over his grave and dropped a reef on it. (P.S. Snoopy is still looking for him.)"

Of course, America had her WWI heroes, too. Like Sgt. Alvin York. "York was an unconscious objector at first, but his preacher told him it was his duty to go kill people - and he did."

He always said he would kill himself if he failed at anything - so anytime he failed to take a country he and his girl friend - Eva Brown - killed themselves. They committed sewerside."

AT BOOKS IN THE CHILDREN'S LIBRARY

Only a week and a half left for you to enter the "My Favorite Book" contest. Make sure you have your entry in the Children's Room by November 8th! And don't forget to tell your friends about the Halloween Story Hour this Saturday at 3:00. Come early and browse through our new books!

Those on the shelves this week include "Smile for Auntie", a picture book that we can all relate to. Remember being pinched and petted by over-zealous aunts? Here, poor Auntie tries everything she can think of to get Baby to smile, but only one thing works. Read the book to find out what it is!

"Molly's Moe" is a story about a little girl who always loses things including, one day, her favorite stuffed stegosaurus. Children who have similar problems should enjoy seeing how Molly loses her possessions and then, using systematic deductions, finds them again. Soft pencil drawings add to this picture book.

"I Will Tell You of a Peach Stone" is a new story about an Old Chinese storyteller and his dog, Peach Stone. Soft illustrations in two colors accompany this story in which the storyteller decides he can best serve future generations by planting peach trees throughout the world. Shades of Johnny Appleseed!

Children in middle grades will want to read "Minnie Maloney and Macaroni", a spoof on superstitions. Gullible Minnie believes something silly that her older sister tells her, even after she has become an adult. The fun really begins, however, when Minnie discovers her stupidity and decides to get revenge.

Learn about birds and get a few laughs, too, when you read "Rupert Piper and the Dear, Dear Birds". When Rupert's town goes bird crazy, he and his buddies pose as bird lovers while secretly forming the Boys' Bird Haters Club. While researching birds' bad habits, Rupert and his pals learn more than they had planned to!

If you're interested in the Wild West, don't miss "Legendary Outlaws of the West", which contains biographical sketches of eleven genuine American western outlaws, from stagecoach robbers to airliner hijackers. Grade 6 and up.

Inspired by an account of a Chinese immigrant who made a flying machine in 1909, "Dragonwings" is the story of a Chinese boy who goes to America to join his father whom he's never seen. In San Francisco's Chinatown he learns to love and help his father, who suffers poverty and ridicule while struggling with a laundry and his dream. A well written historical novel for better readers, grades 6 and up.

Totie Fields Jokes About Loss Of Leg

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Can a famous comedienne get laughs with a routine about having her leg amputated and spending seven months in a hospital bed? Yes, if she's Totie Fields.

The 47-year-old performer met the press Wednesday, her first public appearance since a circulatory problem complicated by phlebitis forced removal of her left leg last spring.

"Honey, if you're not funny with two legs, you're not going to be funny with one," Miss Fields said when asked whether the amputation would affect her act. "I have the same tongue and brain. I haven't lost my sense of humor."

And she proceeded to prove it: "The minute I put the rings back on, I knew I was well," she said, flashing a handful of diamonds. "I don't care if I lost a leg, I've got my fingers." Miss Fields revealed that she had once tipped the scales at 191 pounds but said she now weighs 117.

"I've never said this before, no one in the world knew how much I weighed, not even Georgie (her husband, George Johnston) ... This is the first time in my life I weigh less than my husband."

During her ordeal, Miss Fields said, there were "times, several times, when they thought I was gone." But she said she believed "there's a reason, I don't think God works in any other way ... and my life will probably be happier than ever."

"Oh, it's so good to be here, so good to smile. Oh God, how badly I wanted to live," she said.

A few of Miss Fields' friends — comedian Jan Murray and performers Florence Henderson and Bert Convy — surprised the comedienne with a huge cake and a few kisses.

She said letters from her fans — "we stopped counting at half a million" — kept her spirits up during the long months she spent on her back.

Miss Fields said she will soon start learning to walk on an artificial leg-first with parallel bars, then with crutches, then with a cane, "and then, onstage." She plans to return to the nightclub stage next April in Las Vegas.

Bing Crosby Sets Benefit For Church

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Crooner Bing Crosby is giving a benefit concert in this glittering gambling town — to help a priest move his congregation out of a saloon.

Crosby, 71, who played a priest in several films, will perform without fee on Nov. 26 to raise money for construction of the Holy Family Catholic Church, producer Bill Loeb announced Wednesday.

"He's even going to buy his own plane ticket," Loeb said. "He wants the church built.... He wants to be part of it."

Crosby and his family, who live in Hillsborough, a suburb south of San Francisco, will fly here to entertain what Loeb hopes will be a sellout crowd of 7,500 at the new Aladdin Theater of the Performing Arts.

The pastor of the church, Father Ben Franzinelli, said he was "most grateful" for the Crosby benefit, "and those words don't seem to express my personal feelings."

Father Franzinelli now holds five services each Sunday in a local country and western saloon. He received some help from the MGM Grand Hotel, a resort on the famous "Strip" which donated theatrical props to hide the bar during services.

"What we want to do is get the Holy Family out of the saloon," said Father Franzinelli.

He said the new church will cost an estimated $750,000, and that plans call for completion by the end of 1977. Loeb said the concert should raise at least $75,000.

Crosby, who has sold more than 400 million records — more than any other singer — has been semiretired in recent years, performing mostly for charity and usually with his wife, Kathryn, and their three children. He plans four benefit concerts in New York City in December.

Pierced Ear

TOLEDO, Ohio (ap) — During a fight with another cat, Sugar, an 11-year-old tiger cat belongs to Jan Montesino, 15, had his ear pierced.

Sugar turned this misfortune to an advantage, however. The cat now wears an earring through the hole.

Woman's Fingers Saved After Mishap

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Until a week ago, the word microsurgery held no meaning for 53-year-old Mary Duerer of Dayton, Ohio.

She heard the word for the first time Oct. 20 — after she lost eight fingers in an industrial accident.

"I had no idea this could be done," Miss Duerer said Wednesday, a week after surgeons worked 14 hours to re-place the severed fingers. "It's amazing. It's wonderful.

"It would be awful if I couldn't use my hands," Miss Duerer said, lying in a bed at Jewish Hospital, her hands wrapped in bandages. "It's just a miracle. I've got them back.

"I was working on a machine, cutting books, and somehow I got my

Highway Projects Submitted To U.S.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The state Department of Transportation has submitted 15 applications for a total of $50 million in proposed highway construction to the U.S. Economic Development Administration.

Transportation Director Richard D. Jackson said the projects qualify for 100 per cent federal financing because they have been delayed for lack of state funds and are located in areas of high unemployment.

He said 21 of the 36 construction projects deferred throughout the state will be financed with state and federal matching funds.

hands too close and down the cutter went and someone said, 'Mary's hurt.' I looked down and said, 'Oh my gosh, I'm hurt,' and realized my fingers were gone," Miss Duerer said.

She was rushed to Dayton's St. Elizabeth Medical Center, where doctors telephoned Dr. Harold Kleinert at Jewish Hospital, who established a "microsurgery" unit several years ago that has become famous for replanting severed limbs.

"They packed my hands in ice, and they worked pretty fast," Miss Duerer said. "Before long I was on a plane to Louisville and in surgery."

Although a Dayton teen-ager underwent similar surgery a few months ago here, Miss Duerer said she never dreamed such an operation was possible. The Dayton teen-ager, Lisa Stephens, lost a hand in an auto accident. It was "replanted" and her physicians predict she'll eventually regain full use of the limb.

"The doctor (in Dayton) told me it could be done. He said 'they are wonderful there, they can do anything,' and that made me feel a little better," Miss Duerer said of her feelings after the accident.

On Oct. 4, 1905, Orville Wright kept his plane in the air 33 minutes and 17 seconds.

Canada's largest island, Baffin, is 183,810 square miles in area.

"I was so glad, just joyious inside of me that they could do it," she said. "I had thought, well, maybe I will have to go through life without hands."

The operation lasted about 14 hours, and Miss Duerer said she had questions for the surgeons when she regained consciousness.

"I asked, 'doctor, do you think I will be able to use my hands,' and he said yes," Miss Duerer said. "I said, 'do I have all my fingers?' He said yes. I said, 'praise God.' I have a lot to be thankful for."

Kleinert explained that not all severed limbs can be replanted, but that Miss Duerer's chances of recovery are good because the fingers were cut "cleanly."

Five fingers were severed at about knuckle level, and three were cut off at the tips. Those three were repaired, he explained.

"I didn't think they could do it," Miss Duerer said. "They say it looks like I'll be able to keep them. They say they are getting along wonderfully."

Her hospital bills are being paid by her company, but Miss Duerer won't know for a while whether she'll be able to return to the same job.

"I don't know about work. It remains to be seen, if I'm able to, but I will be able to use my hands," she said. "And that's what's important."

CBer Helps Nab Men

NEW PHILADELPHIA, Ohio (AP) — Highway patrolmen are crediting "Whipped Cream" and her citizens band radio for the capture of four men wanted in connection with the death of an Athens County village marshal.

Louise Kincaid, 36, of Stone Creek in Tuscarawas County, disabled by lung disease, uses her citizen band radio as sort of a clearinghouse between truckers and state troopers.

So, authorities asked her early Wednesday to broadcast the description of a car wanted in connection with the death of Trimble Village Marshal Ted Holcomb, 29, who was killed when he was setting up a blockade.

The four suspects drove north from Athens County and were apprehended at an Interstate 77 interchange after a trucker radioed troopers he spotted the car.

Mrs. Kincaid said a friend introduced her to the hobby and it gave her a good excuse to exercise her lungs.

Memorial Day was first observed officially May 30, 1868, on order of Gen. John Logan, Grand Army of the Republic commander.

"Harry said I can pick our wedding date as long as it's not in the basketball, baseball, football, hunting or trout seasons."

Physical Well Being Clinic
Conducted For Senior Citizens

Physical Well Being Clinic was conducted by John Hills, Consultant with the Ohio Commission on Aging at the Y.M.C.A. Tuesday.
Vera Saunders, Program Planner of Pickaway Senior Center and Joan Eller, Y.M.C.A. Program & Physical Director were the hostesses who introduced Hill.
He taught four basic exercises to be given to the geriatric set. He stressed the importance of contraction of the muscle to keep in good tone. Hills stated that four ingredients are necessary in setting up an exercise program for the elderly. The first of these is safety. Any equipment that is used, such as a chair for balance, should be sturdy. The leader needs to have each person check to make sure he has enough room so that no one is hit by another person's motions.
He also feels strongly that any exercise program should be productive from the standpoint of health. Many exercises help to improve circulation and the respiratory system. These should receive priority.
All exercises should be applicable to daily life, Hills said. An example is an exercise that loosens the neck muscles so that those who drive are able to see over a wider area.
He also encouraged those who were organizing programs to make them as pleasurable as possible. He noted that persons should be able to enjoy the pleasantness of coming together in a group without the stress of having to achieve perfection.

EXERCISES
Hills suggested that exercising be done to music and recommended any music with a steady major beat of about 30 beats per minute. This is easily checked with a clock.
Exercises may be tested by poking the muscles that are supposed to be working, he noted, adding that these muscles will feel harder when in use. Hills demonstrated a series of exercises called "The Basic 4" which is designed to exercise the entire body.

A horizontal arm swing led off those for the upper body, with arms out and swinging as far as possible from side to side. Then with elbows nearly straight and palms together, the arms make a wide circle, up and around. With hands in the same position, the person stretches them overhead and then forward, bending at the waist and using a swinging motion. As he swings upward he inhales and exhales on the downward swing.
Still swinging arms in time to the music, Hills stood straight and swung them as wide as possible and then in front of himself until they crossed as far as possible. This is good for the chest, he explained.
Demonstrating exercises for the side muscles, he stood erect with feet flat on the floor and legs straight. It is important to keep feet flat and far enough apart for good balance, he said.
Suggesting that the person stand near enough to a wall that his shoulders brushed as he swung. Hills demonstrated swinging from side to side, bending at the waist with arms first dropped at the side and then extended straight out. Next he placed his palms together above his head as high as he could reach, still swinging from side to side with the rhythm of the music.
The next set of exercises in "The Basic 4" consisted of forward swings. Hills does not recommend sit-ups or straining to touch the toes as both of these exercises cause spreading of the sacralia and success is often based more on how the person is built than on his physical condition.
In the forward bending exercises, the person bends forward at the waist as far as possible and then backward as far as possible, telling his back muscles to do the work. Inhaling is done at the top of this arch and exhaling as the exerciser goes forward.
Hands begin on the hips and then reach into a motion similar to the breast stroke of a swimmer, reaching forward as the person is bent forward and stretching toward touching in back when the exerciser is bent backward.
The last set of exercises revolved around knee bends. With hips back and feet flat and spread wide (heels about 14 to 18 inches apart), the exerciser slides the palms of his hands down his thighs until his fingertips touch the kneecaps. Gradually he bends deeper, until he slides his palms over his kneecaps, then to the middle forearm. Again he is inhaling as he stands straight and exhaling as he goes down.
Balance is exceptionally important in the exercise and is one of the reasons for always using a wide, comfortable stance, and keeping the feet flat. If the person feels that he is losing his balance, he can easily stand and put one foot back.

After all exercising, Hills recommends taking ten or more deep breaths through the mouth and drinking some water.
GETTING OUT OF BED
Noting that many people fall and are injured when getting out of bed in the morning, Hills suggested a routine for getting up that will help overcome this danger.
On the edge of the bed before rising, the person sits with his hands under his thighs and with ankles crossed and squeezed. He then raises his feet to straighten his legs and will be able to feel the front of his thighs working. Recrossing his feet and squeezing, he repeats, working up to 20 leg-raising each way.
He leans forward, stands and pauses, then begins with small steps. This process allows the body circulation to adjust to the demands of the day.
Those attending were from Fayette County — Helen Baughn, Hazel Coder, Leona McGinnis, Carol J. Campbell, Karen Chaffin, Nancy Bartlett, Gladys Wood, and Pearl Spangler and from Pickaway County were Elizabeth Hutchison, Martha Wiggins, Charlotte Gurney, Wanda Hamilton, Virgie Nelson, Ruby Scaggs, Sharon Eyer- man, Ann Ramey, Violet Carson, Nancy Snyder, Norma Eyer- man, Bill Smith and Gladden Troutman.

Farm Couples Selected

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Four regional winners have been selected for the finals of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation's first Outstanding Young Farm Couples contest. One of the four will be selected as the outstanding young farm couple at the federation's annual meeting Nov. 29-Dec. 1.
The regional winners, Robert and Susan Geissman of New Washington, Arthur and Eltha Logan of Farndale, Wendell and Marcia Walters of West Lafayette and Tom and Lynn Pitstick of Fairborn, were selected from a field of 78 entrants.
The four finalists will receive an engraved award and an expense-paid trip to the annual meeting in Columbus next month. The couple selected for the top honor will be sent to the federation's annual young farmer and rancher conference at Osage Beach, Mo.
Most of the entrants were nominated by Farm Bureau advisory councils. Judging was based on the couple's agricultural operation and farm management abilities as well as their ability to act as a team and their involvement in community and civic activities.

Quarterbacks Have Bad Early Season

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

They fall each week like so many wooden Indians, one after another. And pretty soon, you begin to wonder whether the word is out around the National Football League to get the quarterbacks.

Half a dozen teams are operating with backup signal callers after their main men were kayoed. The injuries haven't been exactly trivial either.

Buffalo's Joe Ferguson is out for the year with four broken bones in his lower back. Steve Bartkowski of Atlanta is out for the year after knee surgery. Pittsburgh's Terry Bradshaw missed two games with spinal shock, after he was turned upside down and bounced on his head on a sack. Joe Namath of the New York Jets and Roger Staubach of Dallas are doubtful this week after suffering injuries last Sunday.

"Obviously, the defense is told to get the quarterback," said passer Mike Boryla of the Philadelphia Eagles, who suffered a concussion against St. Louis. "And when they get to him, they give him a good shot. That's their job."

Then Boryla paused. "What people don't realize," he added, "is that defensive ball players are bigger, stronger and much faster than they used to be."

Bob Avellini of the Chicago Bears agrees.

"The big reason some guys are getting hurt is that the linemen are getting bigger and faster. And more and more, the quarterbacks can't outrun them anymore," he said.

Currently, Avellini has a huge knob on his throwing elbow, a souvenir of last week's game against Dallas. He blames that one on the artificial surface at Texas Stadium.

"Have you ever been bounced off asphalt?" he asked. "I wouldn't have these elbows and shoulders if I weren't being bounced off asphalt."

George Allen, coach of the Washington Redskins, likes Avellini's turf theory. "I think the artificial turf doesn't help quarterbacks," he said. Allen cited Bradshaw's injury as an example.

"Bradshaw might have been injured on grass, but not that seriously," he said. "He would have bounced."

What Allen didn't know was that Bradshaw was injured on grass at Cleveland. He did not bounce.

Bradshaw was hurt when he was forced to scramble out of the protection of the pocket against the Browns and was caught by Cleveland's Joe Jones. He thinks the nature of 1970s football is as responsible as anything for the rash of injuries suffered by quarterbacks.

"I don't think there are many cheap shots. It's just a rough game and it's gotten rougher. The defense realizes that their chances of victory are going to increase the more they get to him, the more they shake him up. He's gonna think about that rush coming and it destroys his train of thought."

Tigers Play In Rubber Bowl

Circleville will be out to bounce back in the Akron Rubber Bowl 8 p.m. Saturday when the Tigers face the powerful Fighting Irish of Akron St. Vincent-St. Marys.

The Tigers will be going into the contest after a loss to Miami Trace last week while the Irish turned in a great performance as they stopped the perennial Class AAA powerful Warren Western Reserve Raiders, 7-0, in their last outing.

Akron is 5-2 on the season, against some really tough competition, and are ranked eighth in the Associated Press State AA ratings.

The Irish will use offensive formations very similar to Circleville and show a lot of motion. They are guided by an excellent quarterback, John Walsh, 6-foot-1, 185-pounds, who is a fine passer and a very strong runner.

He has a pair of top receivers in split end Joe Bailey, 6-foot-2, 195-pounds, and tight end Jim Houston, 6-foot-2, 180-pounds. Houston is the son of former Cleveland Brown and Ohio State star Jim Houston.

Akron is a veteran club with eight seniors on the starting offensive unit. They are a sound, consistent ball control team powered by the strong inside running of fullback Marty Johnson, 5-foot-9, 190-pounds.

On defense the Irish will employ a Notre Dame 4 with three deep pass defense.

The offensive unit of the Irish will be: Houston, tight end; Frank Trunk, 6-foot-1, 205-pounds, left tackle; Tod Walter, 6-foot-2, 195-pounds; Mark Darlack, 6-foot, 215-pounds, center; Bill Lovelace, 5-foot-11, 195-pounds, right guard; Chris Shaffer, 6-foot, 200-pounds, right tackle; Bailey, split end; Walsh, quarterback; Johnson, fullback; with Roland Greene, 5-foot-9, 175-pounds, and John Ditco, 5-foot-9, 170-pounds or John Cistone, 5-foot-9, 160-pounds, rounding out the backfield.

"This is as good a football team as we have played," Circleville coach Larry Cook stated. "We saw them beat Warren Western Reserve last week and they were quite impressive. Akron Garfield is the only team that has scored more than one touchdown against them and that was in their opening game."

"We have been working hard all week and are making some changes in an effort to improve our football team. We are looking forward to playing in the Rubber Bowl and welcome the challenge of meeting and excellent football team," Cook said.

New Leaders In Grid Ratings

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Only Cincinnati Moeller, The Associated Press' statewide poll leader, was able to keep its lead this week in the Class AAA regions in the Ohio High School Athletic Association's computerized ratings.

Gone from their top spots in Class AAA were Parma Valley Forge, Zanesville and Findlay.

Into their No. 1 places went Parma Senior in Region 1, Toledo St. John's in Region 2 and North Canton Hoover in Region 3. Moeller, with the highest point total of 118.50 in any of the regions, again led Region 4.

There were also three new faces in AA, St. Marys in Region 6, Minerva in Region 7 and Urbana in Region 8. They replaced Columbus DeSales, New Lexington and North College Hill.

Elyria Catholic was the lone AA pacesetter to keep its top position, pacing Region 5.

Class A regions were the stablest with Fostoria St. Wendelin in Region 10, Woodsfield in Region 11 and West Jefferson in Region 12 remaining in the leads. The newcomer in Region 9 was Ashtabula St. John, taking over for Cleveland Cuyahoga Heights.

The OHSAA uses the regional ratings to determine its semifinalists for the postseason playoffs.

Dr. J, 76ers Beat Rockets, 116-94

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

When Julius Erving was sold by the New York Nets, he obviously took many of his fans with him.

Only 5,832 turned out at the Nassau Coliseum Wednesday night to see the Nets play their home opener, but for the second night in a row Dr. J drew a record crowd.

After attracting a National Basketball Association record of 27,383 in New Orleans Tuesday night, Erving drew 15,676 in Houston Wednesday night. And he gave them their money's worth, scoring 27 points in leading the Philadelphia 76ers to a 116-94 victory over the Rockets.

The Nets, meanwhile, edged the Washington Bullets 96-93. In other NBA games, the San Antonio Spurs won their home opener over the Phoenix Suns 115-106 and the Detroit

Pistons beat the Seattle SuperSonics 106-92.

76ers 116, Rockets 94

Erving, in his most productive effort since joining the 76ers, tied teammate George McGinnis — with whom he shared Most Valuable Players honors in the American Basketball Association two years ago — for scoring honors with 27 points.

"I think this is what the future (of the 76ers) is all about," Dr. J. said. "McGinnis is a very gifted player and we have to work together and help each other."

"He made some moves I couldn't even think of," Rockets forward Rudy Tomjanovich said of Erving, who controlled the ball like a yo-yo while soaring towards the basket.

Nets 96, Bullets 93

"A Tisket, A Tasket, We Want Boe in a Casket," read one banner at the Nets' home opener. The fans obviously have not forgiven Nets owner Roy Boe for peddling the heart and soul of the franchise to Philadelphia. The Nets themselves haven't forgotten, either.

"People were looking for the Doctor and me to play together," noted Tiny Archibald, the Nets' prime off-season acquisition who paced the victory over Washington with 26 points, "so it's not surprising that they stayed away."

The Nets got 65 of their 96 points from their three guards, with John Williamson adding 22 and Al Skinner 17, offsetting a 34-point burst by the Bullets' Phil Chenier.

Spurs 115, Suns 106

Another former Nets player, Larry Kenon, returned to action after missing two games with a stomach virus and poured in a healthy 41 points for the Spurs, who took advantage of 35 Phoenix turnovers to reward the crowd of 8,919 who turned out for their first NBA home game. Alvan Adams topped the Suns with 24 points.

Pistons 106, Sonics 92

Detroit, leading 51-44 at halftime, pulled away in the second half as Bob Lanier scored 11 points in the third period and M.L. Carr netted 12 in the fourth quarter. Lanier finished with a game-high 21 points.

Mark Boy Chosen Top OC Player

CLEVELAND (AP) — Marietta's Mark Boy has been named Ohio Conference offensive player of the week in the Blue Division as a result of his 225-yard rushing day last weekend.

Boy, a 5-foot 9, 175 pound sophomore carried 41 times and scored on touchdowns romps of 29 and 2 yards as the Pioneers beat Mount Union 20-7.

Baldwin-Wallace's Dean Janitzki was chosen as the defensive standout from the Blue Division. Ohio Northern quarterback Tim Greene and defensive end Steve Winkle collected honors in the Red Division.

Racers Coach Sends Pair To Minors

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Coach Jacques Demers of the World Hockey Association Indianapolis Racers, angry after Wednesday night's 5-1 loss to the San Diego Mariners, gave walking papers to some of his players.

Demers stalked to a telephone immediately after the game and called Coach Brian Conacher of the Mohawk Valley farm club of the North American Hockey League. Demers said he was shipping out Francois Roshon and Bryan Campbell in exchange for rookie forwards Bob O'Reilly and Mike Zuke, a former star at Michigan Tech.

Tom Skiffington led the Saratoga steeplechase riders during the 1976 meeting with 16 winners in 59 races. W. B. Cocks paced the trainers, saddling 13 winners.

Reds Shrug Off Free Agent Draft

NEW YORK (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds are so good they won't be shopping at the free agent supermarket. The Montreal Expos are so bad they would like to buy out the store.

The Reds, two-time defending champions with lots of talent down on the farm, announced Wednesday they will not participate in the Nov. 4 free agent re-entry draft. In contrast, the Expos say they will be going all out to shore up a weak team that is leaking in all directions.

Cincinnati President Bob Howsam, who has balked at free agent pitcher Don Gullett's request for a five-year contract, said:

"In fairness to the players who have won the world championship for us two years in a row and with consideration to the way our organization is structured, we do not think it would be right for the Cincinnati club to get into the bidding contests that must come out of this draft."

"Nearly all of our players have remained loyal to this organization and we are hopeful that we can maintain this relationship in the future to our mutual advantage," Howsam added.

The Reds are a team of stars, and any inflated bid for a free agent would have severe economic repercussions from stars like Johnny Bench, Joe Morgan and Pete Rose. Also, the knowledge that the Reds are still a super team makes it easier for Howsam to stick to his principles and not sign or replace Gullett.

The Expos, who had the worst record in baseball this season, have no stars. Only once in their eight-year history have the Expos finished worse than they did this season. That was in 1969, when they came into the baseball world as a new expansion team and recorded a 52-110 record.

This year, the Expos finished dead last in the National League East with a 55-107 record, 46 games out of first place.

But when it comes to the Nov. 4 draft, worst is first. The two leagues will be alternating selections for the 25 free agent players and, because the NL won a coin toss, Montreal will pick first and the Chicago White Sox will go second.

"We could use a middle infielder more than anything," said Charlie Fox, the Expos' vice president in charge of baseball operations. "We have just two established outfielders. And anyone could use a powerhitter like Reggie Jackson."

Jackson is the most glamorous name of the first batch of free agents, an elite group that includes outfielders Joe Rudi and Gary Matthews; infielders Dave Cash, Bobby Grich and Bert Campaneris; catcher Gene Tenace, and pitchers Wayne Garland, Bill Campbell and Gullett.

Even if the Expos decide Jackson is their top choice they must consider several questions. Is he interested in us? Can we sign him? Can we afford him?

Jackson, who reportedly has valued himself at $3 million, has ruled out the cities of Milwaukee and Cleveland. He also says he wants to go to a contender, but the addition of Jackson and another top free agent can quickly make a contender out of almost any alsonan.

"We're very much interested in Mr. Jackson," said Fox. "We've talked to him and he told us he would be receptive to any offer. He hasn't ruled out Montreal."

In the upcoming draft, a free agent will be removed from the drafting list after his negotiating rights have been selected by 12 teams. A team can draft as many players as remain eligible, but it can only sign two. The only exceptions to this are Oakland, California and Baltimore — teams with more than two free agents. These clubs will be able to sign as many free agents as they lose.

Fox says money won't keep the Expos' Board of Directors from landing two top free agents.

"We've got the green light," says Fox. "(Chairman of the Board) Charles Bronfman says we should do whatever it takes. He wants two of them."

Sabres Tie Penguins; Many Misses

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

You can't fire many more shots than the Buffalo Sabres launched at the Pittsburgh Penguins.

And you can't miss many more scoring opportunities.

"These are the games that make the ulcers," said Buffalo Coach Floyd Smith. "When you get so many shots on net, you should win."

The Sabres outshot the Penguins by a whopping 50-22 margin, yet managed only a 4-4 National Hockey League tie Wednesday night.

If it was depressing for Smith, who has one of the best offensive teams in the NHL, you can imagine how it was for Pittsburgh Coach Ken Schinkel. He felt like a thief in the night.

"You have to be happy getting one point when the other team takes 50 shots," said Schinkel. "I think we might have had two points if Dunc Wilson hadn't had to leave, but you can't blame Gord Laxton. He came in cold and on the first real shot on him, (Rene) Robert just rifled it."

The Pittsburgh coach referred to Robert's game-tying goal for Buffalo in the final period against Laxton, who replaced Wilson in goal after the Sabres' starter was given a game misconduct for fighting.

In other NHL games, the Boston Bruins nipped the New York Rangers 4-3, the Minnesota North Stars whipped the Toronto Maple Leafs 5-3, the Montreal Canadiens and Chicago Black Hawks played a 4-4 tie and the Colorado Rockies whipped the Atlanta Flames 4-2.

Virgil Trucks tossed two no-hitters for Andalusia in the Alabama-Florida League in 1938.

Nebraska leads the nation's college football teams in pass defense over the past five years, allowing an average of 93.8 yards per game on passes.

Michigan ranks first in scoring defense in football over the past five years, allowing an average of only seven points a game.

Danny Ozark Top NL Manager

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Philadelphia Phillies' manager Danny Ozark has the last laugh on his critics. He was voted National League manager of the year in the annual Associated Press poll of the media.

But the 52-year-old Ozark refused to gloat over those who predicted the Phillies would never win anything under his managership. He was humble after being notified about the honor.

"I don't think this will change me as a person," said Ozark by telephone from Hilton Head, S.C., where he is on a golf holiday. "I am glad you people thought enough of me to vote for me. Maybe hard work paid off."

Ozark said he was surprised that he received 197 votes to just 79 for Sparky Anderson, manager of the world champion Cincinnati Reds, and 55 for Houston's Bill Virdon.

"Sparky did another super job," Ozark said. "He brought 'em (Reds) in. He's world champion."

Ozark said that despite his team's three game wipeout in the National League Playoffs by the Reds, the Phillies still were a very good team. "We all learned something from that playoff, and we'll be back."

Ozark, whose team won 101 games and took the National League Eastern Division by nine games, passed his honor along to his team. He said the Phillies were good enough to win the division regardless of who was the manager.

"They (the players) put me there because they played so well," Ozark said.

Ozark has been under intense criticism ever since he signed as manager in December 1972, after 33 years in the Los Angeles Dodgers' organization as a minor league manager and later Dodgers' coach. Most of the media expected Dave Bristol to get the job.

But despite the criticism, Ozark improved the Phillies each year of his regime. He led the team from 59 victories to 71 his first season, moved from last into third place with 80 wins the following year, to second with 86 in 1975, and first with 101 in 1976.

Ozark impressed many people with his low key handling of the Phillies in the final six weeks of last season, when the club went into a tailspin and blew all but three of a 15½ game lead. He never panicked. The club bounced back and went on to win the division.

Ozark said after learning of his manager of the year designation, that he never would ask his detractors to eat their words.

"I don't want any enemies," said the manager. "One particular time the writers and I had something bad happen to us. I hold no grudges. What makes me feel good about this is that they held no grudges. They thought I was good enough to get it. I thank all those who voted for me."

Billy Martin Top AL Manager

NEW YORK (AP) — Billy Martin, who restored pride in the New York Yankees' pinstripes and guided the team into the World Series in his first full season at the helm, today was named The Associated Press' American League Manager of the Year.

Martin received 164½ votes and edged Kansas City's Whitey Herzog by 9½ votes in the nationwide balloting by sportswriters and broadcasters. Gene Mauch of Minnesota was third with 20 and Chuck Tanner of Oakland was fourth with 15½.

"I appreciate this very much. It's a wonderful honor," said Martin, who also won this award in 1974 as manager of the Texas Rangers. "I only wish that I could receive it as manager of the world champions."

Martin was just four victories away from fulfilling that wish. His Yankees ran away with the American League East title with a 97-62 record, finishing 10½ games ahead of Baltimore. They then beat Kansas City in five games for their first AL pennant since 1964.

"I'm embarrassed we didn't do better in the World Series," said Martin, whose club was swept in four straight games by Cincinnati. "But I still think we had a heckuva successful season."

"We won the pennant for the first time in 12 years and we brought pride and tradition back to the Yankees. This year we got to the World Series; next year we'll win it."

Battling Billy is managing his fourth major league team after stormy stints with Minnesota, Detroit and Texas. After a 12-year major league career, highlighted by five World Series with the Yankees, Martin began his managing career at Denver of the Pacific Coast League in 1968.

The next season he was named manager of the Minnesota Twins, guiding them to the AL West title. But the Twins lost to Baltimore in the AL championship series, and Martin, who had some differences with the Minnesota management, was fired at the end of the season.

He served as Detroit's manager from 1971-1973, leading the Tigers to finishes of second, first and third, respectively, in the AL East. He was fired late in the 1973 season and finished up that year as the manager of the Texas Rangers.

Early in 1975, Martin's differences with the Texas management proved irreconcilable and he was let go by the Rangers. The Yankees hired him in the middle of 1975, and he immediately began placing the Martin stamp — speed and aggressiveness — on the club.

Offseason trades for centerfielder Mickey Rivers and second baseman Willie Randolph gave the Yankees' running game more authenticity, and Martin skillfully guided the club into its 30th World Series.

The 48-year-old Martin was a model of behavior all year, getting along well with his players and Yankees management, including owner George Steinbrenner.

"George and I got along beautifully," said Martin, "and the players and I had a real rapport. That's the secret of my success."

Cincinnati Voters Face Hot Issues

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati voters will be thinking of themselves and their children when they go to the polls next week in a hotly-contested municipal sideshow to the national election.

They will be voting on one city charter amendment which would hit them in the pocketbook by raising the current 2 per cent earnings tax rate an additional 0.35 per cent.

They will also consider a juvenile curfew proposal, rejected by the city council but put on the ballot by initiative petition.

The increase in the earnings tax rate has been portrayed by its supporters as the only acceptable way to prevent a $16.1 million deficit. City Manager William Donaldson said the other alternative is to drastically cut city expenditures.

The additional tax money would be used for current operating expenses and permanent improvement purposes. Following 1977, 0.15 percentage points would be used for permanent improvements only.

Opponents say a defeat of the tax increase will force the city to face another alternative — cutting government waste.

The six Charter-Democrat coalition members of city council have voted to endorse the program, while the three Republican members challenged the proposal.

Mayor Bobbie Sterne, herself a Charterite, said that the fate of Cincinnati as a "livable city" is at stake in the tax vote.

Republican Guy Guckenberger has charged that the majority has gone too far in recruiting city employees to work for passage of the measure, while there have been countercharges that Guckenberger is using the issue as a political football to seek office in the future.

Meanwhile, another Republican has gotten into a fight with the council majority, but he has so far had more successful results.

Walter Beckjord was put off by council when he proposed a curfew which said youngsters 17 years old and under should be off the streets by 1 a.m. on all nonschool nights and 11 p.m. on school nights.

He pointed to curfews which have been adopted in many cities to prevent fast-rising juvenile crime rates.

Close to 40 per cent of the seven major crimes—murder to auto theft—is accounted for by juveniles in Cincinnati, he noted. He said that while juveniles rarely commit murder, the proportion of youths committing rape has grown to 33 per cent.

The police department has expressed concern about finding available manpower to enforce the curfew, while opponents on the city council have called it "the quickest way to lose our freedom."

"The proposed juvenile curfew is a misguided idea whose time must never come," said Councilman Gerald Springer. "Not only does it do nothing to reduce juvenile crime, as evidenced by its performance in some cities, but it tends to increase the potential of violent police-citizen confrontation."

Springer's feelings were not shared by more than 14,000 persons who signed petitions asking for the juvenile curfew question to be put on the ballot.

That initiative led to a counter-curfew petition drive by high school students opposed to the plan.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.
FOR FRIDAY
Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): If you have any doubt about projects, reconsider them, but subdue unreasonable fears. Give a thought to earlier successful moves, procedures. They could guide you now.
Taurus (Apr. 21 to May 21): Some lack of harmony indicated. Proceed with prudence, forethought. When considering widely divergent opinions, evaluate carefully.
Gemini (May 22 to June 21): For your own benefit and the edification of others, bring to light one of your lesser known talents, and capitalize on it. This day calls for ACTION — for which it will pay handsomely.
Cancer (June 22 to July 23): Mediocre efforts won't do now — especially with so much competition about. With skillful maneuvering, however, you may accomplish more than you think possible.
Leo (July 24 to Aug. 23): A stimulating day! Stellar influences give new impetus to all worthwhile undertakings. Go forward confidently toward immediate objectives.
Virgo (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Do not envy others. Successful acquaintances can actually assist you. You have an analytical mind and penetrating insight. Use them!
Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): A conflict between business and personal affairs may bring on some tension. You can counter by isolating the essential and getting it out of the way.
Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): Keep emotions under stern control. Any tendency to "fly off the handle" could result in serious misunderstandings.
Sagittarius (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Curb an inclination to take on more than you can reasonably handle. You will only scatter energies and accomplish less in the long run.
Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): A better day for your interests than you may realize. Waste no time getting started, but don't drive through, indifferent to the reactions of others.
Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): A notable day for presenting new ideas; also old ones carefully treated to get the most good still left in them. Your talents should shine now.
Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): An inner voice may rebel against intended action. Listen! As the saying goes: When in doubt, don't.

Say Ferry Captain Had Been Drinking

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A coroner says the captain of a Mississippi River commuter ferry was "almost legally drunk" when his craft collided with a tanker last week, killing an estimated 78 persons.

"This guy had been drinking.... It is difficult to say how much," said Orleans Parish Coroner Frank Minyard, who released an autopsy Wednesday on Capt. Egidio Auletta, 35.

Minyard said the autopsy showed a blood alcohol content of .09 per cent — "just a tad under 0.1 ... which is the legal definition of being drunk in the state of Louisiana."

The coroner said that to have a blood sample with such a high alcohol content "a man would have to have been drinking quite heavily."

Minyard said Auletta "was almost legally drunk, and this coupled with the fact that he was at the end of his shift — the drinking and the fatigue — in my judgment, impaired his judgment and ability to handle his vessel."

Some officials said after the mishap that the captain's body was not found on the bridge of the ferry George Prince. He was the only licensed pilot known to be aboard.

The ferry and the Norwegian tanker Frosta collided before dawn Oct. 20 as the ferry was making the 10-minute crossing from Destrehan to Luling, 20 miles upriver from New Orleans.

A Coast Guard panel investigating the accident heard one of the 18 survivors say Wednesday that the ferry seemed to be on "some kind of suicide mission."

Kenneth Becnel of Destrehan said the ferry cut its engines within about 30 yards of the tanker. "If the engines had continued, it might have missed," he said.

And Arthur Benneche, chief mate of a ship that was anchored nearby, testified, "I believe if the ferryboat hadn't started to back up it would have passed.... It would have been a narrow escape, but it would have passed."

Benneche's testimony was entered into the record over objections by attorneys for the Louisiana Highway Department, which operates the ferry and which has been named as codefendant in six suits by survivors seeking $12 million in damages.

Officials had said the death toll could reach 100, but they lowered that estimate Wednesday to 78, still the worst Mississippi River tragedy this century.

State Secretary of Transportation George Fischer said 72 bodies have been recovered and six persons are still missing.

The original list of victims included 22 persons who have since been located and were not on the ferry, Fischer said.

Circleville Group Hears Harsha

WILLIAM HARSHA

Congressman William Harsha addressed a group of about 75 people Wednesday at a luncheon meeting at Steele's Restaurant. The people present were members of the Legislative Committee of the Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce.

Harsha informed the luncheon group of bills presented to the congress, those that he endorsed and those that didn't have his support.

He said if Issue Six on the ballot is enacted, it would put a damper on the construction of nuclear power plants. Harsha hopes Ohioans defeat this issue.

On the Nuclear Fuel Insurance Act, Harsha opposed the issue. He said it only guaranteed groups that the process would work, such as a warranty on a washing machine. He added that the bill was killed in the senate.

The appropriations bill, for $270 million, would mean a great deal to a 10 county area, including Pickaway. At its peak, it would provide jobs for 10 thousand workers and provisions for material. He added that the coal plants would provide for about 3,000 construction workers and a nuclear power plant with jobs for another 3,000 workers and ancillary jobs.

Harsha went on to discuss other bills. He added that in the last day the legislature met, about 125 bills were passed and he doubts if too many people knew what was in them. Most of the day was spent in special meetings.

Questions from the meeting members concerned the Tax Reform Act and real estate shelters. Tax loopholes were discussed, and although they are used as incentives to create jobs and boost the economy generally, Harsha noted that most people don't understand their purpose. He agreed with one member of the group that said that 'loopholes' should be eliminated as the term to describe it.

Auditor Releases Supplemental Tax

State Auditor Thomas E. Ferguson's office reported today a supplemental distribution of $1,171,002.83 in taxes on financial institutions and securities dealers to 48 counties.

In late August the Auditor distributed the bulk of the intangible taxes for fiscal 1976 with a record $96,321,983.21 going to the local government funds of the 88 counties, Ferguson noted.

The counties distributed this money, on a priority basis, to political subdivisions within the counties with the townships receiving no less than 10 per cent of the total county distribution, Ferguson said.

The intangible tax amounts to three mills per dollar on the value of shares of, the amount of capital employed by and the interest earned on capital employed by financial institutions. The tax is six mills per dollar on the value of shares of the amount of capital employed by securities dealers.

Two mills of the financial institutions tax and five mills of the securities dealers tax are returned to the counties on the basis of number, capital and investments of financial institutions and securities dealers located in a particular county. The remainder of the tax goes into the state's general fund.

The distribution to Pickaway County included $159.96.
